Fig Trees

Fruit Trees, Nut Trees and Fruit Bushes

If you are going to plant a tree or bush, then it is going to be there for some years. So it's well worth spending some time looking at the different varieties and going for something that will be productive and providing you with a good crop in years to come. Time spent to prepare the ground properly will repay you many times over.

Fig Panachee

Delicious and attractive fruits Figs are attractive, deciduous, vigorous-growing plants that make a superb addition to any garden, trained against a south-facing wall or fence or grown in a large container on the patio. This prolific-cropping variety, though it's been in cultivation since 1668, is something quite unusual, boasting high quality, deliciously sweet fruit with a unique variegated colouration that is certain to make it one of the most talked about items in your garden and your fruit bowl! Supplied in a 3 litre pot.

Fig Panachee

Sweet, tasty variegated fruit! This prolific-cropping variety, though it's been in cultivation since 1668, is something quite unusual, boasting high quality, deliciously sweet fruit with a unique variegated colouration that is certain to make it one of the most talked about items in your garden and your fruit bowl! If you have a bare south-facing wall on your garage, shed or even your house, then waste this space no longer. Figs will not only produce an attractive display of foliage, but also provide a bountiful harvest. They're very vigorous, so growth should be limited by restricting the roots to a large container (which will also encourage fruit formation). Alternatively they can easily be trained on the wall and pruned to fit the required space. Supplied in a 2 litre pot.

Fig : Violetta

The Bavarian fig and in our opinion the most hardy, best flavoured and heaviest cropping fig available. Produces very hardy figs of exceptional eating quality. Unlike other figs, Violetta needs regular watering and feeding to grow well, when the over wintering figs will mostly ripen in June, followed by a superb crop in September.

Price: £21.99 More Information from Thompson & Morgan

Fig : Panachee

Also known as Tiger Fig due to its unusual striped fruits, Fig Panachee is an ancient variety mentioned in agrarian history as far back as 1668, which boasts an excellent flavour and very good cold resistance. Produces one crop per year of 55g fruits.
