

Ray's Figs Ray's Figs

Links to Other Fruit Websites

If your site relates to figs or fruit, botany and horticulture in general, I would like to know about it and add it as a link. Please e-mail me at thegivans@planters.net and let me know about it.

North American Fruit Explorers \(NAFEX\) Home Page

Italian American Figs

California Rare Fruit Growers \(CRFG\) Home Page

The fig page of the CRFG

Italian American Figs--A site created by Al who has 25 years of experience growing figs in New Jersey

Rare Fruit Council Home Page

Fresh Figs--A good source for mail-order figs. I tried them last year and the figs were superb

Italian Figs

Exotica Rare Fruit Nursery--A good selection of figs

California Fig Growers Website—A lot of valuable info on figs as grown commercially in California.

KiwiBob ---A personal site mainly focussing on kiwis, but also info on figs.

Pépinières Penninckx---A Belgian nursery with 27 fig varieties. Site is all-French. Good photos.

Martha Stewart Living magazine

Edible Landscaping Nursery's Website —The premiere site for landscaping with edible plants. Good selection of figs.

Burnt Ridge Nursery ---A wide assortment of unusual fruits for the Northwest (including some figs).

The USDA National Clonal Germplasm Repository, Davis Home Page —The repository responsible for fig materials.

The Internet Directory for Botany—An enormous and valuable site.

alt.agriculture.fruit newsgroup

http://fruitsandnuts.ucdavis.edu/louise/louise_f.html.--The web site of Louise Ferguson, a researcher involved in the only fig breeding program I am aware of--breeding a replacement for Calimyrna (Sari Lop).

<http://Fig-ficus-society@yahoogroups.com> --a discussion group on figs.

sci.agriculture.fruit newsgroup

Last Update---February 6, 2003

Home	Fig Sex	Figs of Israel	Sycomore Fig	ID Figs	Light Figs	Dark Figs	My Collection	Fig Booklet	American Figs	New Figs	Ethnic Figs	2002 Comments	FAQ
----------------------	-------------------------	--------------------------------	------------------------------	-------------------------	----------------------------	---------------------------	-------------------------------	-----------------------------	-------------------------------	--------------------------	-----------------------------	-------------------------------	---------------------